Alaska Department of Education & Early Development (EED)

2013

Objectives for this Technical Assistance

- Participants will gain knowledge of grant writing basics
- Participants will gain knowledge of common grant writing "mistakes"

Top Ten Tips for Successful Grant Writing

#10 - Note Page Limitations

- Do NOT stretch beyond limits
- Do NOT shrink font, use smaller margins, narrow font etc.

- Do number all pages in the same location
- Do ensure page orientation is portrait unless specified.

#9 - Careful of Acronyms

- D.N.U.T.U.P.I Do not use these unless previously identified
- Do give a brief explanation where necessary -reviewer may not be familiar with your program/service, etc.

#8- Write for this Request for Applications (RFA)

- Make sure all answers are easy to follow and make sense
- Make sure to answer in the order of the questions/sections
- Tailor application's goals and narrative directly to THIS application's purpose
- Determine if this grant matches YOUR objectives or mission

#7 - Less is More

Cut to the chase

Say what you want to do and why

 Use graphs and charts to describe or highlight points or goals

#6 - Understand your service recipients

- Understand the needs of your population
- Understand the community including the support/desires that may be in place
- Base decisions on Reliable, Accurate and Current data

#5 - Capacity

- Demonstrate capacity to provide proposed services
- Include realistic plans for hiring expertise, if necessary
- Applicants should anticipate for unforeseen changes; such as difficulties in staffing, and plan accordingly

#4 - Funding

Only ask for what you need

- Multi-year grants should reflect changes in
 - Cost of living expenses
 - Training needs

#3 - Direct Services

- Most grant dollars should be focused on either training for staff
- Or
- services to target population

#2 - Priority Areas

- Applicants should recognize any targeted or priority populations expressed in the application
- Applicants should have planned services, research based programs, or other evaluated initiatives that are well articulated and comply with application stipulations
- Applicants should consider their ability to apply for this funding

#1 - Innovative Solutions

Make sure solutions are tied to research or evidence based programs.

Timelines

Have you carefully looked at all required timelines, including those for the letter of intent to apply and deadline for applications?

Application Submission

Do you understand all submission requirements?

Understanding the Generic EED RFA - Section II

- Application and directions
 - The "meat" of the application
 - Cover Page
 - Table of Contents
 - Program Summary/Abstract
 - Narrative
 - Budget
 - Appendices

Understanding the Generic EED RFA - Section II

- What about Rubrics?
 - Rubrics tell exactly what reviewers will look for in responses
 - Every section is important, but some are worth more points
 - Reviewers will be able to use all numbers on the point scale during the review
 - Some responses impact understanding (and scoring) in more than one section

Proposal Trouble Spots

- When it is not clear what is being addressed by the proposal or why it is worth addressing
- When there is no evidence that the proposal has a good chance of succeeding

- When the proposal is too expensive for the probable gain
- When the proposal is more appropriately funded through other sources

Proposal Trouble Spots

- When the proposal is badly presented and/or filled with spelling and grammatical errors
- When the proposal uses portions of previous applications without updating
- When the proposal does not follow guidelines/deadlines (timelines for submission, fonts, charts, orientation etc.)

Biggest Common Mistake for Proposal Writers

- Understanding that your application is a commitment, like a contract, and if you say you are going to do it (and you are funded)
 - we will expect you to do it.
